Pre-Employment Program
Application Form

Rappahannock Regional Criminal Justice Academy is a Virginia regional training academy in Fredericksburg and Middletown, Virginia which trains basic and veteran Law Enforcement Officers, Jail Officers and Communications Officers for more than sixty member agencies.

Rappahannock Regional Criminal

Justice Academy

Law Enforcement Pre-Employment Program

The Rappahannock Regional Criminal Justice Academy offers a law enforcement pre-employment training program. The program allows qualified individuals who are not currently employed with a law enforcement agency the opportunity to attend an 18 week Law Enforcement Basic Academy. Students who successfully complete the training receive law enforcement certification in Virginia making them potentially more competitive for employment in the law enforcement profession.

Candidates meeting minimum requirements must complete an oral interview, physical examination, psychological examination, and background investigation. Upon successful completion of the background investigation and acceptance into the pre-employment program, students would be responsible for payment of tuition fees and other administrative costs associated with the training. The Rappahannock Regional Criminal Justice Academy's law enforcement basic training program is an approved program for military veterans who qualify for the G.I. Bill.
